Whitakers, N.C.

Chartered 1965

Standing in front of the first Enfield Academy in 1965, are its original teachers and three members of the first Board of Trustees. From Left to Right are Rom Parker, Treasurer and Attorney; Mrs. Stella Edwards, fifth and sixth grade teacher; Mrs. Bessie Hancock, fourth grade; Dr. S. N. Wood, Chairman of the Teachers' Committee; Mrs. Marie Mangum, second and third grades; Miss Garnet Grizzard, first grade; and the Reverend A. C. Morgan, Chairman of the Board.

The Enfield Academy opened on September 1, 1965, at Hardarwee School, near the town of Enfield, with a faculty of four teachers and a student body of seventy-one. It had been organized during the summer by a group of interested citizens from Enfield, Darlington, and Weldon. From the beginning, the Enfield Academy was a pioneer in the field of modern private schools. It was the first private school in North Carolina to become chartered under the State's Non-Profit Corporation Act.

Dr. S. N. Wood was the first President, and Mrs. Bessie Hancock served as the Headmistress the first year. The Reverend A. C. Morgan was Chairman of the first Board of Trustees. The Board was composed of the following members: Walter E. Clement, Secretary; Rom B. Parker, Treasurer and Attorney; Dr. S. N. Wood, Chairman of the Teachers' Committee; W. L. Fleming, Chairman of the Purchasing Committee; J. H. Norman, III, Chairman of the Book Committee; Alvin A. Woodard, Chairman of Publicity and member of the Finance Committee; and Paul Barringer, Aubrey Dickens, Jesse Holford, and H. L. Johnson, members of the Finance Committee.

From the beginning, the parents and friends of the Enfield Academy showed a remarkable spirit and willingness to work. During the first month, they formed the Patrons of the Enfield Academy, which, under the leadership of Mrs. James F. Hunter, first President, became one of the pillars of the school. Parents and friends scrubbed floors and desks, painted walls, made curtains, hung light fixtures; put in restrooms, installed central heating, and even built classrooms. To raise the necessary money, bake sales, auctions, and festivals were conducted. The students responded enthusiastically, and the joint effort was rewarded at the end of the year when the School was granted State approval. This academy spirit has both continued and increased these five years. Maxville Burt Williams became Headmaster at the beginning of the second year, and under his administration, the school has steadily grown until it now has an enrollment of 425 students. It was at the start of the second year that the territory served by the Academy was expanded to include Scotland Neck. They proved dedicated as the organizers, and in a short time were serving on the Board of Trustees and as Chairmen of important committees. C. C. Turner of Scotland Neck succeeded the Reverend Morgan as Chairman of the Board, and in turn, was succeeded by Travis Uzzell, the present Chairman.

Subsequent members of the Board have been Wade Dickens, John Branham, Kevin Viverette, L. W. Locke, Leonard Bunting, Dr. David Stroud, and J. P. Alford.

During January, 1968, the Enfield Academy purchased the Whitakers school property in Nash County and during March of that year moved the school to the new location. This move to Whitakers provided the Academy with seventeen classrooms, a library, a laboratory, a lunchroom, a first aid room, a teachers' lounge, a Headmaster's office, a gymnasium, and a beautiful auditorium, which was subsequently named Parker Auditorium in recognition of the services of Rom B. Parker in acquiring the property.

During the summer of 1968, it became evident that the enrollment of the Academy would double the next fall, and that at least a part of the older portions of the school would have to be renovated in order to accommodate the new students. The incredible spirit of the Academy came through again. The summer was hot; the job to be done was large, but hundreds of persons spent untold hours working under the leadership of Building Committee Chairman, Leo Bellamy. The library was organized and fully set up by Mrs. Rom

Parker, who volunteered her services as librarian. The auditorium made debates and plays possible, and the gymnasium and baseball field made sports competition with other schools possible. The Carolina Academy Conference was formed for basketball competition, and the girls' team immediately became champions. The fourth year had hardly got underway before applications from new students poured in. The Board of Trustees with the assistance of the school treasurer, E. M. Davis; Mrs. E. M. Davis, and Mrs. L. L. Allen, immediately began processing applications. By the end of the year, sufficient applications had been approved to more than double the enrollment.

The hard summer of 1968 was nothing in comparison with the summer of '69. Hundreds of people went to work, and again the job was done. The fall of 1969 found the Academy with an enrollment of 425 students and a faculty of sixteen well-trained and qualified teachers. Students attending the Academy came from fourteen cities and towns, six counties, and had previously attended thirty-three schools. In this fifth year of operation, the Academy proved successful with its first graduating class, additional clubs and activities, and its first annual, the Fife and Drum.

Dedication

Dear Parents and Patrons,

Since this is the first annual of the Enfield Academy, the Fife and Drum staff wanted to dedicate it to someone who had really contributed the most toward making the school the success it is today. The decision was very important, but impossible. The staff immediately realized that no one person or even a few people had created the Enfield Academy. Clear, yet still astounding memories came to our minds—memories of our parents and friends enthusiastically building, scrubbing, and painting; creating miracle after miracle for five long, hot summers to give us the school we are now proudly attending. For the endless self-sacrifice, we can never hope to repay you. But in our own way, we would like to show our deepest appreciation to you all.

Therefore, the staff voted unanimously that this, our first yearbook, was to be dedicated to the parents and patrons, who are still continuing to build and improve our school, in hope that you will realize our greatest gratitude for your efforts and generosity.

In deepest appreciation,

The Fife and Drum staff

The Patrons of Enfield Academy

The Patrons of Enfield Academy is composed of both parents and friends of the Academy. Working throughout the year, these dedicated supporters give freely of their time and service in order to augment the Academy. When school is not in session, they renovate the buildings, making new classrooms, painting, installing fixtures, and gathering needed supplies and teaching aids. The P.E.A. also helps to finance the Academy by holding bake sales, auctions, plays, and festivals. Last April, the patrons turned actors and produced The Womanless Wedding. This hilarious comedy was a big success. Two of the largest and most successful of their projects are the fall and spring festivals. This year the fall festival made nearly seven thousand dollars. Ninety percent of the profit is turned over to the Board of Trustees for the operation of the school. The remaining money is used for special P.E.A. projects. The patrons' constant support and willingness to work whenever needed has made the Enfield Academy a successful and constantly growing school.

David Winstead, Secretary; Wilma Whitehurst, Treasurer; Benny Hilliard, President; Matt Matthews, Vice-President.

The Student Council is composed of two students from each homeroom. The officers are chosen by the entire student body at the beginning of the year. This year the Student Council brought about many rewarding changes in the school. Besides taking care of problems arising between students and the faculty, the Student Council wrote a student constitution and initiated a monitoring system, a fire drill system, and a clean-up campaign. Their latest project has been the opening of a student store to supply the students with pencils, paper, and composition books.

"The purpose of this organization shall be to promote the ideals of honesty, service, and leadership among the high school students of America, to reward good achievement and to encourage and assist students to continue their education." The Senior Beta Club has certainly lived up to its purpose in the year 1969-70. Not only did it sponsor the school newspaper, the Student Crier, but it also teamed-up with the Student Council in a clean-up campaign. The Beta members also made much progress in establishing Beta Clubs in nearby academies, and it began a Junior Beta Club at Enfield Academy to promote scholarship and leadership in junior high students. In April, the Club attended the Beta Convention in Raleigh.

The Student Crier is sponsored and financed by the Senior Beta Club. The Beta members review applications for the various editors' positions and vote on them. Each editor then selects his own staff. The Crier Staff is composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Working in their spare time, these students put out an edition every two weeks. The Student Crier contains students' editorials, creative writing, and reports on various social and sports events. The paper is printed with the help of Coastal Lumber Company, who donates the use of their offset printing machine. The paper is an immense success for the Beta Club and is a joy to the students.

ELEMENTARY GRADES

"Last year When I was little
 I could only count to three,
 And never could remember
 What the next number should be!
 But now that I've grown bigger
 I know more than I did then,
 For I have been in school a month—
 And I can count to ten!" — Ford

"School days, school days,
 Dear old golden rule days"
